Mark Hill, from the Antiques Roadshow

Session 1: 10.00 to 11.00

HOT STUFF! THE BIRTH OF STUDIO GLASS: Although glass has been made for centuries, the 1960s saw a revolution in the way it was made, opening it up to artists across the world and allowing glass to be used as a medium for art. After looking at the historical context and the genesis of the movement, Mark examines the work of six key glass artists from the US and the UK, including Dale Chihuly, Sam Herman and Peter Layton. This talk also includes top tips and an overview of the market today and the creative journey made by studio glassmakers so far.

Break : 11.00 to 11.30 Refreshments and home-made bakes included in the ticket

Session 2

VINTAGE FOUNTAIN PENS: The pen is mightier than the sword! In today's digital world of emails and tweeting, the art of writing has largely been left behind. Adding personality and individuality to communication, the tools of writing have a fascinating history dating back to prehistory and peaking in the golden age of the fountain pen in the 20th century. As well as a full history of development, major makers, keys to identification, dating and value are examined.
